

Conscious processing is limited to 120 bits of information. You use 60 bits listening and all 120 in conversation with another person maxing out your bandwidth. Unconscious processing can handle billions of bits of information all at once; we don't need to search outside ourselves to find a credible source for miraculous insight. We have terabytes of information available to us; we just can't tap into it in our normal state. We get access to increased data, heightened perception and amplified connection. It's BIG Data for our Minds." - Stealing Fire
